

Chewing Tobacco health risks connected with tobacco use

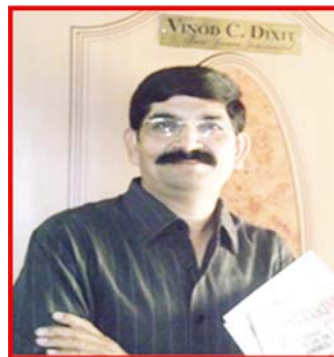

Irrespective of cultures and countries, backgrounds and ethnicities, tobacco is chewed in different forms and ways. Tobacco use is the single most avoidable cause of death worldwide and is currently responsible for killing one in 10 adults worldwide. In India, at least 800,000 deaths every year are related to tobacco use, out of which 700,000 are related to smoking. Chewing tobacco reduces the lunges to a sponge that soaks in at least 30 known carcinogens, or cancer causing chemicals. The list of tobacco related diseases is long and includes heart and blood vessel diseases, bronchitis, asthma, impotence, birth defects and growth retardation in babies, etc. Tobacco kills almost six million people each year and more than 600 000 are non-smokers breathing second-hand smoke. Tobacco causes cancer and most of us are aware that smoking causes lung cancer and chewing tobacco causes oral cancer. If a person wants to smoke, that is his own personal choice. However, the health effects that come with it affect nonsmokers, from the secondhand smoke to litter, and cause just as much damage to the people around them, something that cannot be ignored. Either way, smoking or chewing tobacco is not something that is welcome or a safe addiction.

It is a serious hazard to good health. WHO everywhere mark the importance the health risks connected with tobacco use and advocating for effective policies to reduce tobacco use.

The President, Shri Ram Nath Kovind with the State Civil Service Officers promoted to the IAS and attending the 120th Induction Training Programme at the Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration, Mussoorie, at Rashtrapati Bhavan, in New Delhi.

Participants of the 120th Induction Training Programme at LBSNAA call on the President

A group of State Civil Service Officers promoted to the IAS and attending the 120th Induction Training Programme at the Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration, Mussoorie, called on the President of India, Shri Ram Nath Kovind today (August 3, 2018) at Rashtrapati Bhavan. Addressing the Civil Service Officers, the President said that the All India Services have played a significant role in the development of the country and the growth of our economy. No one can doubt the contribution of these services to nation building. But we must critique ourselves to ensure that our Civil Services constantly improve. The President said that as public servants, the Civil Service Officers need to be role models in their personal conduct. In their professional conduct, honesty and integrity, humility, and sensitivity to the diversity of India and of our society are non-negotiable. The President said that all the officers work in the service of the people of India. However some people need government support more than others. The Civil Service Officers have to focus their energies to serve those among our fellow citizens who are economically weak, socially disadvantaged and politically under-empowered. It is these groups that need their attention the most.

Share and Care is the Core of Indian Philosophy: Vice President

The Vice President of India, Shri M. Venkaiah Naidu has said that Share and Care is the Core of Indian Philosophy. He was addressing the gathering at the 141st Birth Anniversary Celebrations of Shri Pingali Venkaiah, the designer of Indian National Flag, organized by the Government of Andhra Pradesh and Sri Pingali Venkaiah Charitable Trust & Smarak Samastha, here today.

that it is the good fortune of Telugu people, that Shri Pingali Venkaiah who designed the National Flag representing the glory of the Indian culture, belongs to the state of Andhra Pradesh. The Vice President said that Shri Venkaiah was the unsung hero of our freedom struggle who made immense contribution. He has devoted his entire life to the nation and worked relentlessly to make India a free country, he added.

Lizol takes India on a journey to a healthy and germ-free kitchen

Lizol, Global Number 1 Germ Kill brand, under the flagship of RB, today announced, the 'Lizol Kitchen. Healthy Kitchen.' campaign with Vikas Khanna, an internationally acclaimed Indian chef as the face for its new Kitchen Power cleaner. Together, they aim to create awareness around the importance of having a germ-free kitchen and get India to make the right choice for a truly healthy life. In a survey conducted by Incite, a strategic research consultancy, it was found that 98% Indians are aware of the presence of germs throughout their homes along with the many threats they pose, however, 62% who are concerned about these germs do not seek germ removal solutions to protect their families. Out of those who chose to do something about it, 42% use phenyl and disinfectants as general cleaning agents to deal with germs across different surfaces in the house. (19-10)

Reusable Launch Vehicle

On May 23, 2016, India became the fifth nation to successfully conduct the flight demonstration of a scaled down version of a winged-body reusable launch vehicle, thereby validating the critical technologies such as autonomous navigation, guidance & control, reusable thermal protection system and re-entry mission management. This flight represented the first baby step towards the realisation of a future fully reusable Two Stage To Orbit (TSTO) space transportation system. A fully reusable Two Stage To Orbit (TSTO) Launch Vehicle, that can launch payloads to Low Earth Orbit with 15 times reusability, is expected to reduce the launch cost by approximately 50 - 60% when compared to that of an expendable launch vehicle.
